University Hospitals/CWRU*

Educational Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, the participant should be better able to:

- 1 Provide background context of heart failure as a significant epidemiological and financial issue for health systems nationwide, including those in the community setting.
- 2 Outline optimal diuretic and heart failure guideline-directed medical therapy (GDMT) strategies, as major tools to improve survival and quality of life.
- 3 Detail the importance of transitions of care in heart failure management, with goals to reduce heart failure readmissions and improve outcomes in heart failure patients.
