Educational Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, the participant should be better able to:

- 1 Discuss the barriers to developing video resources to support student learning and how the use of Notability® can overcome these barriers.
- 2 Describe the characteristics and features of Notability® that can be leveraged to produce novel video resources to support student learning and integration of concepts from different disciplines.
- 3 Describe at least three ways in which students engage with video resources developed using Notability® to guide their self-directed learning and integration.
- 4 Practice developing a Notability® video resource to reinforce a transdisciplinary teaching point using an existing image or schematic as the foundation for the video.
- 5 Translate the use of Notability® to at least two other learning activities that would benefit from novel video (or just visual) resource development.
